Policy H7 has a requirement for self-build housing, suggesting that certain sites should have 5% of plots made available for such development, and fully serviced. However, the majority of new residential development sites identified in the local plan (that do not have planning approval) are complex brownfield sites where individual plots are unlikely.

6.40 says that the plot could be an area of land or a customisable unit, but we have concerns that a customisable apartment shell, whilst offering an opportunity for some, is not in the spirit self-building because the fabric of the building, windows and drainage are likely to be in fixed positions, offering little scope for designing a home. Furthermore, the owner will be subject to service charges and possibly leasehold charges.

ECS monitors most planning applications, and despite the Plan indicating that there is a demand for 20 plots a year, we are not aware that ECC have required self-build plots on appropriate sites in recent years to meet their duty to grant sufficient planning permissions (para 6.38).

5 (c). Please set out the modification(s) you consider necessary to make this part of the Exeter Plan sound, in respect of any soundness matters you have identified at 5(b) above.

You will need to say why each modification will make this part of the Exeter Plan sound. It will be helpful if you are able to put forward your suggested revised wording for the relevant policy or paragraph. Please be as precise as possible.

H7a reworded 'on development proposals of twenty or more homes, 5% of homes/plots should be made available as serviced plots for sale to custom self-builders (and include a statement about at reasonable cost?)

H7b delete. We do not understand why windfall sites over 20 homes/plots are treated differently and the term 'within the urban boundary' is used because all development in the city will be in the urban area.
